Honors Orientation Registration Form

Honors Orientation (BIOL 217, Fall) is the first of five (5) honors courses (four Directed Readings courses and one Honors Research course) that are part of a special honors curriculum for Biology majors in the Honors Program of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Honors Orientation, the first of four Directed Readings courses, must be taken in the first semester (fall) of the sophomore year.

Honors Program courses are restricted during registration to prevent ineligible students from registering for them.

To register for Honors Orientation, please fill-out this form and bring it to the first class meeting. If you are eligible to take the course, then the instructor of record will sign the form. You must then give the form to the Administrative Assistant in the main office of the Department of Biology (Room 130). The Administrative Assistant will then lift the restriction so that you are able to register for the course.
